

Dydd Gwener 22 Mawrth.

L.I: To polish and publish a modern retelling of Romeo and Juliet.

One new sunny day in the Verona jails, A Montague had found a lonely Capulet planning revenge for putting their friends in jail but not putting any Montagues in jail. The manager had enough of this inappropriate behaviour. The manager of Verona ordered the families feud to stop and to release the faithful souls if any one kept a faithful soul again the manager would put them in jail for five years.

As time past the Capulets excitedly held the best gard of the Month awards ceremony in an enormous draped filled room with chandeliers sparkling on the dance floor. The mayor announced the best gard of the month award; the victorious winner was Tybalt. Strolling confidently through the front door, three young men Romeo, Benvolio and Mercutio laughed at this experience. Later that day the ceremony turned into a gathering. All the gathered guests glanced across the room to their partners so they could dance. However there was one particular girl stood swinging her feet hoping someone would ask her to dance. Romeo could see Juliet and Juliet saw him too. They couldn't take their eyes off each other they stuck together like to pieces of a jigsaw that fitted perfectly. They had to get married as soon as possible.

Just after, the unknown wedding day arrived with out any notes and Friar Laurence married the excited couple, Romeo and Juliet. A couple of hours later Romeo was strolling through Verona when out of nowhere Tybalt, Juliet's cousin, startled Romeo. Angrily Tybalt belowed, "So you think my glorious victory was funny?"

"I don't want to fight you!" Replied Romeo and he calmly walked away.

However Mercutio was furious and in temper he replied, "I will fight you!"

"Ok!" replied Tybalt and on accident Mercutio fell to his death. In fury Romeo killed Tybalt. The Manager found out and banished Romeo from Verona for as long as he lived.

Meanwhile, Juliet sprinted to Friar Laurence after hearing some heart breaking news; her parents were trying to get Juliet to marry Paris. Eager for help she asked Friar Laurence, "Can you help me get out of my wedding?"

"Ok" he replied and came up with a plan he put sleeping tablets in to a beef burger. "This will make you appear dead for 12 hours. Then you can run away with Romeo." replied Friar Laurence.

"Mack show you tweet this to Romeo?" replied Juliet.

"I will your fair lady." replied Friar Laurence.

The next morning Lord Capulet and Lady Capulet discovered that Juliet did not awake for breakfast in curiosity they sprinted up their stone steep stair case and entered Juliet's chamber. To their surprise they found their delicate daughter dead. They wailed in desperation at this tragic site. Regretfully they took Juliet on her last devastating journey to the Capulet's family tomb. Romeo's personal assistant Balthazar rustled in the bush and saw this devastating funeral he raced in his police car to Romeo and told him the bad news. Romeo slunked to the floor and went to the apothecary and cried, "If my wife is dead then I must join her." At the same time, Friar Laurence the mayor knew there was something wrong.

Breathless, Romeo arrived at Juliet's side. His eyes bulged out of his head as he saw his wife lying there lifeless. Sobbing with sorrow he kissed his true love for the very last time. A couple of moments later he drank the poison and fell to the floor in agony. A couple of moments later Juliet awoke from her deep silent sleep. All of a sudden her heart shattered in pain as she saw Romeo's soulless body. She stretched for Romeo's dagger and forced it into her heart. The two tragic lovers were united in heaven. After a while their bodies were found. The two families were heart broken. The mayor of Verona was disappointed and blamed the two families for this death, declaring "For never was there a story of more, woe than that of Juliet and her Romeo."